CALIFORNIA VALLEY SOLAR RANCH

The County of San Luis Obispo is reviewing a proposal by SunPower to create a 250 megawatt (DC) photovoltaic solar electric system that will generate about 600,000 megawatt hours of power per year (enough energy to power approximately 90,000 homes) to be located on privately owned former ranch land in California Valley.

This meeting is being held specifically to obtain your input about potential environmental impacts that should be included in the County's environmental review of the California Valley Solar Ranch.

It's your opportunity to be heard!

SHARE YOUR ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS

The first step in the County's consideration of the SunPower project is this meeting to learn your concerns about potential environmental impacts and include them in the review process.
